

I have serious concerns about using the power lines as a delivery mode for internet data. In Japan the government has forbidden the practice as this technology interferes with Amateur Radio high frequency service. I am in favor of this mode of delivery ONLY if it is proven not to cause interference to the Amateur Radio high frequency bands currently allocated to the Amateur Radio Service. Be certain to adequately test this mode of deliver to PROVE it does not cause interference to the Amateur Radio community.

Gary Buda

WAØNDN